LOWER CAR LICENSE FEES TURNED DOWN

Efforts of the Alberta Motor Association to obtain refunds of this year's license fees for motorists and also a reduction in the license scale have been turned down by the provincial government.

Premier Manning has informed the AMA that the government does not feel warranted in acceding to the requests, but that consideration will be given to the submission when the budget for the next fiscal year is being considered.

Keen disappointment has been expressed by officials of the AMA over the government's rejection of the submission, as it was felt that there were good and sufficient reasons for the requests for lower license fees and refunds on the 1943 license being allowed.

Motorists have been unable to obtain the full value of their license fees, due to wartime restrictions on fuel and tires, while in addition the condition of the highways has been far below the standard required by sound maintenance practice.

Officials of the AMA say that the fight to obtain concessions to motorists in recognition of present conditions will be continued.

The Jewish new year 5704 is being observed today.

BASRA—Indian sappers are performing an amazing engineering feat on the Persian Gulf, where it was necessary to have a bridge for shipment of war supplies from Basra to Russia. Because of a muddy river bottom, seasonal gales of 70 miles an hour, a four-and-a-half knot tide, and the necessity of providing a 40-foot overhead clearance for inland traffic, there seemed to be insurmountable difficulties. The British officer in charge conceived the idea of building a bridge on piles, with a sinking span in the centre, and the Indian sappers have carried out his instructions. A sinking span has never been used before in the history of bridge building, but after exhaustive tests the brigadier in charge and engineering critics from far and wide are convinced that this simple alternative to a raising span has come to stay.

APPRECIATION FROM BOY OVERSEAS

The following letter was received early in the week by D. A. Howe, of the Blairmore Branch of the Canadian Legion, and speaks eloquently for itself.

England, 8th Sept., 1943.

Dear Gus:

Just a note to yourself along with the card to let you know how really grateful we all are for your untiring and successful efforts to keep us all smoking and happy. You probably know as well as we do how difficult it is to get smokes over here when the tobacco supply is so curtailed, so be sure the smokes from Canada often saves the day.

In case you are asked just what the Legion are doing for us over here, Gus, I can assure you they are definitely doing the right thing by us. As you probably know, the Canadian troops here are pretty well massed in the south of England, and the majority of them are in camps in the bush, where there is no entertainment. To relieve this situation the Legion have mobile show units, which go around and usually put on two first grade shows a week. They also have mobile canteen units which usually get around two or three times a week supplying soap, blades, laces, etc., which the boys would seldom get the chance to buy elsewhere. Their prices are very just, so it's a welcome sight to see the canteen draw in. Whenever we get a chance to spend a few hours reading, we can select a book from a well supplied and organized lending library run by the Legion War Services. If one wishes to do a bit of studying for post war work, he can select a course on any field of work, all available through the Legion offices at a very moderate fee. I could go on indefinitely, Gus, naming things they are doing for us, but I think I've mentioned enough to assure you we aren't being neglected. The letterhead on this paper, shows up another point which I neglected to mention, but is very important one I can assure you.

Well, Gus, this old war is four years old today, and we have been here three years and a month, and sometimes wonder where it will all end. It has been very difficult waiting so long, and I am grateful that I'm in the Engineers where one can keep busy enough to make the time pass quickly. It makes us feel that our time is being spent usefully, but, of course, not in the way we came over to spend it.

We felt pretty badly about not being in the Sicilian affair, and now today the First Division, who were the Canadians there, have landed on the toe of Italy with a division of the Eighth Army. The First Division are a great bunch of fellows and for a long time at first we were with them building up and defending the south coast of England.

One thing is certain, Gus, we belong to a very good army and are thoroughly trained in the use of our excellent equipment, so when our time comes I am confident that a lot of us will get right to where we started out for. After over three years in this country we are thoroughly convinced that both it and Canada are worth fighting for, and we still have not forgotten some of the terrible bombing outrages committed on defenseless civilians here in 1940 and 1941.

Well, Gus, I started out to write you a note and have now gone far past that point, so had better close.

With the exception of Bill Knight and Charles Harmer, all the Blairmore boys that came over with this unit are still here and are fit and well. They all got their Legion smokes today, so once again the Legion scores. Cheerio for now, and I hope this finds yourself and family equally as well as it leaves me.

Sincerely, ALBERT CHAPPELL.

HON. W. P. MULOCK

Postmaster General, who reminds all that Christmas parcels for members of the armed forces overseas should be mailed not later than November 1.

WORDS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL'S NEW RADIO FEATURE

What makes the words of Winston Churchill famous? Is it the man who utters them, or the times and circumstances in which they are uttered? The clue may be found in both. Mr. Churchill is a man of courage and principle, chosen to lead at a time when the world had been brought to the very brink of ruin by lack of courage and lack of principle.

Every Sunday evening, commencing October 3rd, a series of radio broadcasts will be made at 7 p.m. over CFAC, entitled, "The Words of Winston Churchill." Broadcasts feature the well-known columnist and commentator, Richard J. Needham, author of "One Man's Column" which appears daily, Monday to Friday, in the Calgary Herald.

In this unique radio feature, sponsored by The Calgary Brewing & Malting Company Limited, makers of "Calgary" Ginger Ale, the most famous utterances of the British Prime Minister will be presented and discussed. They will be discussed as milestones in current history, as symbols of leadership by one of the world's great leaders, and most important of all, perhaps—as the outward expression of the fifth and determination of English-speaking people all over the world.

"The Words of Winston Churchill" will summarize, in a series of fifteen broadcasts, starting Sunday next, seven crowded years of defeat and victory, and will show the manner in which one man, because he symbolized the tolerance and dignity of his fellow-people, changed the course of history.

The marriage is announced of Elizabeth Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKenzie, to LAC Byron Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Berlin, both of Clearholm.

Golden-haired and pretty Pat Bailey is singing for civilians and soldiers alike in her latest weekly programme of modern song hits. Her next broadcast of romantic melodies will be heard over the CBC national network on Saturday, October 9th, at 5.15 MDT. Pat joined up some time ago with the trouping comrades of the entertainment front. She has sung for soldiers, sailors and airmen, and has also played hostess for the CBC "Swing For The Services."

TO INVESTIGATE COAL MINING SITUATION

The coal mining situation in Western Canada served by workers of District 18 of the U. M. W. of A., comprising Alberta and British Columbia, will be investigated immediately by two commissioners, Judge G. R. O'Connor, of Edmonton, and F. E. Harrison, of Vancouver. The first session is to be held today at Calgary, when members of the Western Canada Bituminous Coal Operators are in session. The district board of the United Mine Workers is also in session. E. Williams, secretary of the Blairmore local, and others from this district are in attendance.

PAUL W. KUSCHEL PASSES

The death occurred at Lethbridge on Friday morning last of Paul William Kuschel, aged 54, well known hotel man of Warner. A few years ago, Mr. Kuschel was interested in the establishment of the Waterton Lakes hotel and chalets, and was chief owner at the time of his death. He was formerly connected with the Alberta hotel and other hostilities in this section. He is survived by his wife and two sons, also a brother, George, who resides in St. Paul, USA.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

H. Draper, RCAF ground crew of Calgary, is visiting relatives and friends here.

FO C. Andrew and Mrs. Andrew, and family, of Lethbridge, are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Carter.

M. Dolowski has returned from Vancouver, where he spent a holiday.

Mrs. F. Ratko (nee C. Blasko) completed her dressmaking course at Calgary, and is visiting relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Crawford and family have taken up residence in Canmore.

Pie T. Grant has returned to his post in Saskatchewan.

Jack and Harry Stobbs returned to Mission City, B.C., after a visit here, with their brother, Joe Stobbs, a patient in Bellevue hospital following an operation.

A Newfoundland watchmaker and jeweler was recently fined $15,000 and costs for smuggling and $10,000 worth of watches and jewelry were confiscated. The amount of duty that should have been paid was around $7,000.

Organization of a Credit Union National Committee was announced by F. J. Fitzpatrick, supervisor for Alberta, on his return from the first all-Canadian conference held at Lewis, Quebec.

FIFTH VICTORY LOAN

OPENS OCTOBER 18th

The Fifth Victory Loan campaign will open October 18th, with a minimum cash objective of $1,200,000,000—the largest ever set by any Victory Loan—it was announced last week.

Finance Minister Isley said: "While the objective is the largest ever set for any Victory Loan, I am confident that it is well within the capacity of the Canadian people."

"The increase in the objective for the Fifth Victory Loan indicates the need to obtain a maximum possible investment from all Canadians."

"Although recent war news has been extremely favorable, I am sure Canadians know that a severe and costly struggle is ahead. Our fighting forces are at full grips with the enemy, and I am confident Canadians will lend their full support by the purchase of Canada's Fifth Victory Loan Bonds."

CHANGES IN CPR HEADS

W. M. Neal, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, announced Monday three appointments to posts in the company's operating departments at Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg.

N. R. Crump, assistant to the vice-president since 1942 at Montreal, goes to Toronto as general superintendent of the Ontario district. He is being replaced by C. E. Stockhill, of Winnipeg, former assistant to the vice-president, western lines. H. A. Greenhaus, former Ontario district superintendent, succeeds Mr. Stockhill.

ONE FOR THE BOOK

Restaurant operators are digging dandruff out of their hair following receipt of the following in a bulletin from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board:

Cut Number Not Size of Serving "Restaurant operators are reminded by officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that if their meat quotas are running short they will be required to cut down on the number of servings of meat made, but are not permitted to reduce the quantity of meat offered at any one serving."

This should force a good many people into matrimony. Even in England they haven't attempted anything to match a regulation like his one.

Under a plan financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, Professor Robert Gard, of the University of Alberta, is getting into touch with Alberta people who can supply information about early days of this province. The Alberta Folklore and local history project will include tall stories about the good old days, relating to the background and romance, about waterways and river transportation, religion and religious characters such as Father Lacombe, tales of ghosts and haunted houses, the naming of Alberta towns, railway stories, etc. The history of various communities is most desirable.

The local salvage committee early in the week disposed of funds on hand to the amount of $90, donating $22.50 each to Red Cross, IOOE, Air Cadets and HMCS Blairmore.

RED CROSS TEA

The Blairmore Red Cross Society will hold their annual tea and sale of home cooking on Friday, October 15. All proceeds will be turned over to the IOOE for purchase of overseas parcels. Every woman is urged to come out and bring some contribution—Friday, October 15th.

MILLS-WILLETTS NUPTIALS

The Pro-Cathedral Church of the Redeemer at Calgary was the scene of a recent wedding, when Muriel Eileen, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Willetts, of Calgary and formerly of Hillcrest, became the bride of LAC P. W. Mills, of Birmingham, England, Squadron Leader Reuss, padre of No. 37, SFTS, RAF, officiating. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, about 70 guests in attendance. Following the reception the couple left for Banff. For travelling she wore a black tailored suit and beige top coat and black accessories. Her corage was red roses. Out of town guests included Miss E. D'Amico and Mrs. William Fisher, of Hillcrest; Mrs. N. Willetts and daughter, of Lethbridge, and Mrs. N. Willetts, Coleman.

BLAIRMORE ASSOCIATION REORGANIZES FOR SEASON

At a meeting held during the week, the Blairmore Community Sports Association was reorganized for the 1943-44 season with officers elected as follows: S. White, president; D. Ennis, vice-president; Sam McDowell, secretary; W. Meier, treasurer; E. Williams, B. Hobson, J. V. McDougall, A. Vejprava and A. Fantin, committee. Reports of last season were read and approved and the financial statement showed a fine surplus in the bank to start the season with. C. Hughson was again chosen ice maker, and is at present superintending repairs to the arena building.

Since June of 1940 the Germans have imprisoned no less than 400,000 Frenchmen and shot 25,000 hostages.

Mrs. B. Saynor left Bellevue last week end for Rockfield, Ontario, where she enters upon training with the women's division of the RCAF. Before leaving, she was presented with an identification disc by Ray of Hope Rebekah Lodge.

C. J. Tompkins had his household furniture and effects moved to Calgary during the week, where he and Mrs. Tompkins will in future reside. The Tompkins residence here has been purchased by Paul Kuhn, of Hillcrest, who is moving his family and effects here this week end. Mr. Tompkins' insurance office in Blairmore will carry on as usual.

Announcement was made on Monday that the Canadian male may again buy trousers with cuffs and get the two-pan suits. These things were banned in March of last year. Other restrictions, eliminating style features like pleats and patch pockets, will continue. No increase in price will be permitted for cuffs on trousers, and pricing for two-pan suits must conform to ceiling regulations.

Angelo Gestile, one of the best known sports enthusiasts of the Crown's Nest Pass, and resident of Coleman for many years, left Coleman last week to make a new home at Langley Prairie, near New Westminster, B.C., where he will become manager of a hotel. Angelo came to Coleman with his mother and other family members from Italy when but twelve years of age. His father arrived there in 1910, the family in 1914. He had always manifested keen interest in sports, baseball especially. He will be missed, not only by Coleman, but the whole Crown's Nest Pass.

Basic English

PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL, in a recent address delivered at Harvard University, referred to basic English as the possible international language of the future. Since that time there has been considerable public interest in this possibility, and it has been the subject of much discussion. Devised principally by C. K. Ogden, director of the Orthological Institute at Cambridge, England, and Ivor A. Richards, now of Harvard University, basic English is an extremely simplified form of English, as we speak it. Our language is said to include some 20,000 words, while basic English has only 850. Of these, 600 are nouns, 18 are verbs and the remainder are made up of adjectives, pronouns and the other parts of speech. In it, everything connected with everyday existence may be expressed, yet as Mr. Churchill pointed out, the whole vocabulary can be put down on one side of a single sheet of paper. The rules of grammar are correspondingly simple, and we are told that an average person can master basic English by devoting two hours of study to it, each day for a month.

English Widely Used Today

The idea of an international, or auxiliary language, is not a new one, and there have, in the past, been other suggestions in this regard. In the Middle Ages, Latin was the universal language of the educated people, and in later times French was the accepted language for diplomatic purposes. There has, however, been a growing tendency towards the use of English as a common language when different nationalities meet, and situations arising out of the present war have increased this trend. During the past few years Britain and this continent have become the home of many thousands of people from the oppressed countries of Europe, and it has been necessary for them to master some English, in order to carry on dealings with those about them. In Europe itself, many people have studied English in order to be able to understand the English radio broadcasts, bringing them news of the outside world.

May Make For A Lasting Peace

The planning of an international language at this time, is being done with the hope that it may be an important factor in the creation of better understanding between nations in the years to come. The fact that English is likely to be the basis of this language, is due no doubt in part to the fact that Anglo-Saxon nations will have an important part to take in the building up of a world-wide structure for lasting peace in the future. Another consideration is the fact that more than 200,000,000 people speak English as their mother-tongue. The only larger group speaking one language is the Chinese, who number 400,000,000. In many parts of the world, English is already taught in the schools, and plans are now under way to teach it as the "second language" in all the schools of the world. The lands where English is spoken have been the cradles of much of the social and moral progress of the human race, and it is to be hoped that as it spreads, so may the principles and ideals which it has expressed.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

FOOD STORAGE

After the hard work you spent this summer on your victory gardens, you will want to be certain that the resulting vegetables will not perish before they are eaten. The storage of garden produce in the home can be relatively easy if a few simple rules are carefully followed. For a storage room—any part of the cellar with a window leading directly outside may be used. If you have a window, it should be covered with sand and sprinkle water occasionally to maintain the proper moisture content of the air. This room will need walls that are well insulated and a well fitted door to provide an even temperature. Containers for the vegetables should be constructed against the outside walls and have slatted sides and bottom to provide ventilation.

Whitewash used on the walls makes for a sanitary room and annually a solution of approximately 1/4 lb. of copper sulphate to 1 gallon of water can be used as a cleanser and disinfectant. Of course you will need a good thermometer.

You must take great care in grading and sorting the garden produce if you want to eliminate decay. The fruits and vegetables should be fully mature, clean and dry, free from damage. Cut out by insects, disease, rough handling, freezing and chilling. During the winter you must sort the produce regularly and remove any defective specimens as they will contaminate the sound stock.

Root produce such as beets, carrots, parsnips, salady, turnips kept best at 33 to 38 degrees F. and in sand. Potatoes need the same temperature but should be placed in crates allowing good ventilation. If you wish to keep tomatoes, they should be kept separately and placed in a closed box. When you are storing apples be sure they are free from bruises and broken skins. They should be placed in slatted bushel crates to allow for air circulation at approximately 33 to 38 degrees F. with a humidity of from 85-95%.

For more detailed information on the storage of fruits and vegetables write to the Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, for Household Storage of Fruits and Vegetables.

Secret Weapons

German Science In This War Has Been A Flop

Hitler's latest "secret weapons" have been talking about some new "secret weapon." Something that is going to stop bombs falling on the Ruhr and Berlin and turn the war scales in Germany's favor. Time was when this sort of talk was a bit frightening. Now it's no more terrifying than a stuffed lion. Hitler first used the "secret weapon" threat in a speech at the Berlin Sports Palace a few days before the war. Yet when he cracked Poland he had nothing more than his Luftwaffe and his tanks. He used the threat again later on, but this time it was merely his magnetic mine, a device that the Allies mastered so quickly it has not been heard of since.

The truth is that German science in this war has been something of a flop. It has produced good weapons: good planes and good tanks; but nothing that Allied research men and engineers haven't equaled or surpassed. Radar, one of the most potent of the war's inventions, is an Allied product.

Hitler's latest "secret weapons"—announced solemnly by a White House spokesman last week—were said to be in the category of bombs. It will be believed when it is seen and heard in action—and that we imagine goes for the disillusioned German public as well as for ourselves.—Ottawa Journal.

Cannot Be Destroyed

Every Person Can Be Definitely Identified By Finger Print

"Every living human being carries on his fingertips a signature that is definitely and legally his own," says John J. Floherty. ("It is as authentic as the signature of the President of the United States on a state document. It singles him out from his fellow men as clearly as if he bore an indelible number on his forehead. This characteristic autograph cannot be forged nor changed, nor can it be permanently destroyed except by amputation."

"This highly personalized signature consists of ten characters. They appear one on each bulb on the inside of the first joints of fingers and thumbs. In the process of fingerprinting all ten fingers are recorded, although a print from any one of them can prove the identity of the person from whom it came.

Certain kinds of work like stone masonry or dish-washing may wear down the ridges and make the pattern less distinct, but a short period of idleness or a change of vocation restores them to normal."

PROBLEMS ARE PROOF According to a London doctor, memory is at its best between the ages of 11 and 14. And, says the Ottawa Citizen, if dad doesn't believe it, let him try some of the problems Willie polished off in his entrance exams.

Famous March Origin

Composer Got His Idea While Playing Game Of Golf

The national anthem of the United States is not a march tune, but Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" might be called the universal march of the United States Army. The national anthem of the United Kingdom is not a march tune either, and while each British regiment has its own march, popular vote would almost undoubtedly place "Colonel Bogey" in the corresponding position to "Stars and Stripes." Several million men joined the British and Empire infantry during the last war, and almost every man Jack of them at some time or other marching to the swing of this speaking, lively tune, which brought vigor back to tired limbs although there is nothing patriotically stirring about the title, which vaguely suggests something to do with golf.

And has, for it was on a golf course that the germ of the tune originated.

According to the music sheet the composer is Kenneth J. Alford, but that is just the name under which Major F. J. Ricketts, director of music of the Plymouth division of the Royal Marines publishes his marches. One day the composer was walking across a golf course when one of the golfers whistled to him as a warning to get out of the way. It was only two notes a minor third apart. Ricketts whistled the same two notes back a tone lower. Later he met the golfer in the clubhouse, and recalling their exchange of whistling he put them together and improvised a theme, which, roughly at that moment was the first section of the march. Subsequently at home he played it over to his wife who advised him to develop the theme which he did, the result being the most famous march in the British Army—"Colonel Bogey."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A Great Man

Livingstone Won Loyalty Of African Natives By His Kindness

Margery Perham in a B.B.C. talk said: "Livingstone believed in courtesy and gentleness even with savages. It worked. For about thirty years he travelled, generally alone, mostly ill-equipped, usually the first white man these primitive tribes had seen—and yet, when he died, it was not from an arrow or a spear but from dysentery, far away from any white man and his African slaves embraced his body and carried it to their own brave decision—for nine months through 1,500 miles of savage bush and tribes to the coast. And three of them saw it brought home to Westminster Abbey and buried there. Livingstone was a great man. He was great in what he did—in the lonely courage with which he struggled, on sick and footsore through unhealthy Central Africa, right through what's now Rhodesia, and Nyasaland, the Belgian Congo and Tanganyika. But he was great too in his words and writings, and in the great call his life made to the British people, not to stop at the coast but to go right on into Africa, and put down the slave trade there and bring in Christianity and civilization. There were explorers before him. But Livingstone called not only to men's sense of adventure or desire for command, but to their compassion and their Christianity."

FAST TRAVEL

If trans-Atlantic airplane speeds ever reach 720 miles an hour, the flying time between the United States and Great Britain would be about five hours. Allowing for five hours' difference between Eastern Standard and British time, this means that a passenger who left London at noon would still be in it when he arrived in New York. Times.

Soldiers in the Canadian Army are protected against foot trouble by regular foot inspection before and after each route march.

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By Ottawa Observer)

THE Canadian premiere of "Meet The Navy" in Ottawa was a knockout, playing to dandy and enthusiastic crowds. The sailors and Wrens in the cast don't have to take a back seat to any of the wartime entertainment outfits, and the show really is going to please everyone in Canada who gets the opportunity to see it. Watch for dates out your way and if you happen to be near a centre getting it, take a try, try and make it. Well entertainment, I call it.

Westerners, many, many of them, know the officer commanding the new Canadian War Staff Course, Junior Wing, starting at Kingston. He is none other than Lt.-Col. W. A. Cripps, whose name is at Saskatoon. A graduate of the University of Saskatchewan, he was officer commanding the 10-22nd Saskatchewan Horse, now overseas as a tank regiment, and which has among its personnel men from northern and southern Saskatchewan.

Canada's newest ocean vessel, H.M.C.S. "Sault Ste. Marie," now on active service, plotting the restless and dangerous waves of the North Atlantic, has among its complement some of those stalwart prairie lads who have been to get gobs of praise from naval headquarters for taking to navy life like a duck to water. Among the lads on this vessel include Cook Jim Aylong, of Camrose, Alberta; Stoker Petty Officer Robert Kettwell, of Prince Albert, Sask.; George Baggett, of Dauphin, Man., and Clarence Johnson of Simile, Sask. The latter just a few years from shore, more about a tractor than a ship, never having seen one except in pictures.

Sub. Lieut. Margaret Mackle of Victoria, B.C., of the Wrens, who was in charge of the first batch of them to go overseas recently, and which included a lot of western girls, was living in Britain when war broke out. She came over to Canada and helped looking after some 850 British refugee children on the boat. Now she is going back, looking after a gang of Wrens, but says it was an easier job than looking after the youngsters.

Some of your sons from out on the prairies have "rode the skies" over Germany and Occupied Europe with Wing Commander "Moose" Fumerson, D.F.C. and Bar, ace night fighter of the Royal Canadian Air Force, and a fellow all Canadians should be proud of. It is interesting to know that when he was alone once, when a younger fellow, assisted Dr. Joseph Kelt, the eminent geologist who discovered an ore lode about a mile from the shore. It would make good reading, a story on what the eminent lads in our services are doing in the field.

That was a solemn warning, in the light of the tough fighting in the Atlantic, was Pilot Officer H. H. Richardson, of Robin, Man., that pretty town which has such a beautiful approach view through a gorgeous valley. Alas! L. M. McKinnon, of Revelstoke, B.C., that little city nestling in the shade of one of the big "hills" of the Rockies. Both got Distinguished Flying Medals and the citations indicate they earned them.

When the H.M.C.S. "Fraser" went down off Bordeaux, France, in June, 1940, it was the last of a series of ships which made the supreme sacrifice helping in that epic evacuation. The commandant of that ship was Capt. Wallace B. Creery, with 29 years service in the Royal Canadian Navy. He has now been named assistant Chief of the Naval Staff. He's a native of Vancouver, but well known to westerners. His son, a sub-lieutenant in the navy, also did valiant service at Malta when that island won the George Cross.

The great deeds and heroisms of our Canadian Army in the Sicilian and Italian campaigns are yet kept in the background while the fighting is at its height. From time to time, soon, these columns should have information available which will allow us to mention some of the outstanding Westerners.

The largest ship ever built in Canada, the "Micmac" was launched in Halifax, Sept. 18. Canadian manufacturers have made the first of the big "hulls" of the Rockies. Both got Distinguished Flying Medals and the citations indicate they earned them.

TONS OF WATER Somebody has figured that provision to the debarkation of food shipped to England from this Continent we had shipped three million tons of water in food crossing the Atlantic.

Cincinnati was widely known as "Porkopolis" before the Civil War because of its extensive pork packing industry.

Gets New Position

Among hundreds of business men, formerly assistant to the operations manager, Trans-Canada Air Lines, Winnipeg, has been appointed to the new position of co-operative assistant. His function will be to foster the spirit of co-operation between employee and management, and to assist the employees in the development of co-operative committees. One of the original employees of T.C.A. Mr. Wells piloted the first mail plane operated by the company in its first service, between Vancouver and Seattle. He is well known throughout the west.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

SINCERITY

Sincerity and truth are the basis of every virtue.—Confucius.

Sincerity is the indispensable ground of all conscientiousness, and by consequence of all heartfelt religion.—Kant.

Loss of sincerity is loss of vital power.—Bovee.

A deep sincerity is sure of success, for God takes care of it.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Nothing more completely baffles one who is full of trick and duplicity, than straight-forward and simple integrity in another.—Colton.

Sincerity is impossible unless it pervade the whole being, and the pretense of it saps the very foundation of character.—James Russell Lowell.

LEARNING NEW WORDS

Catering for American troops in Britain has meant learning a lot of new words. The manager of a restaurant must use the very foundation of character.—James Russell Lowell.

The serving of marmalade with, instead of after, the bacon, kipper or other savoury dish ordered for breakfast is also becoming a habit.

TO EASE MISERY OF CHILD'S COLD RUB ON VICKS VAPORUB

Over-Bleaching

Find That Textile Loss Through Bleaches Is Frightful Great

According to experiment carried out in the Laundry and Dry Cleaning Laboratory of the National Research Council, Ottawa, the misuse of Javelle water, or sodium hypochlorite solution, as it is known to scientists, is the cause of a great annual loss of textiles.

Laundry experts have been trying for years to eliminate over-bleaching with its resultant deterioration of fabric.

Prolonged rubbing of a stain may weaken the fibres of a fabric, therefore, when stains become difficult to remove, bleach is often necessary. Bleach should only be used when other efforts are unsuccessful and then in the proper solution and never at boiling temperature. To use less than the amount given in manufacturers' instructions is better than to use more. Often directions accompanying bleaches call for the use of more than is really safe for the fabric.

HOME SERVICE

LEARN TO WEAVE AND MAKE LOVELY THINGS

Wearing is an art that has been considerably revived in recent years. Particularly since the war began, people are reverting back to making their own materials because of a scarcity of the finer wools on the market.

Fingers are rediscovering weaving as a pleasant and useful pastime. Not so many years ago it was a necessary skill in the home. With the development of industrial machinery the craft was taken from the home. Years have passed, and war, more than anything else, has brought it back to the home again. If you want to learn how to weave, your 32-page booklet will help you greatly. It tells you what materials you need and what spinning devices how to weave various articles from rugs to baskets.

The booklet avoids the complex. It tells what can be done on the more advanced looms but it really gets down to basics with such simple looms as piece of cardboard, embroidery hoops, breadboards.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How To Weave Useful Household Textiles" from the War Service Department, Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

France Could Be Assaulted By A Strong Force

LONDON.—Commander Redvers Prior, Conservative member of Parliament for Aston and a veteran of Dunkirk and two Allied raids on German-occupied Europe, stirred the House of Commons when he said the Nazi fortifications in France are "very strong" but could be "assaulted and breached by a determined assault, well-organized."

Prior, who took in the combined operations raid on St. Nazaire and the reconnaissance force at Dieppe, referred to his part in these attacks when he said: "I had the good fortune to inspect a portion of Hitler's West Wall."

"If the government will give us assault forces for our tanks we'll give you victories," he declared.

"The Nazi has very bad nerves. During our assault on St. Nazaire a French officer in that town told me hundreds of Nazis were giving themselves up to the French in the interior of Brittany and in his opinion 10,000 men could have broken through and chased them out of the West peninsula."

Prior escaped into France from the Dieppe raid in August, 1942, and was there six months before returning to Britain. He obtained much information while posing as a French workman—and lost 40 pounds in weight.

In an interview following his speech in Commons, Prior said, he landed on the Dieppe beaches with the Canadians and stayed behind "because I considered it my duty to do so."

"I helped Col. Merritt (Lt.-Col. C. C. I. Merritt of Vancouver and Belleville, Ont.), who led the South Saskatchewan regiment and won the Victoria Cross, to organize the rearguard," he said.

"Col. Merritt remained behind as a prisoner of war. And she was to play a great part in winning the battle of the Atlantic for the Allied fleets. The Hanover was a blockade runner. Overtaken by a British ship and the Canadian destroyer Assiniboine, she was put out of action and the Canadians formed a boarding party which prevented the German crew from scuttling her."

MAKING PLANS

Japanese Government Is Getting Ready For Move From Tokyo

LONDON.—The Japanese government has decided to prepare "for the moving of government departments, industrial establishments and the civilian population from Tokyo as well as other important cities in the interest of improving their defence," the Tokyo radio said.

The broadcast listed a number of drastic measures, including total mobilization of the civilian population and the abolishment of age limits to make all persons liable for national service, which it said were announced by Premier Hiroshi Tojo and the government information office "in view of the decisive phase upon which the war will enter during the coming months."

The government also announced these measures: Increase of anti-aircraft defense forces, especially the "air protection in industrial regions."

Special measures for the protection of government buildings and factories in Tokyo and other big cities.

Strengthening of government control over all industry.

Centralization of traffic on land and water.

CANADIAN NAVY

Will Obtain Six Destroyers From Britain This Year

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—Announcement that the Royal Canadian Navy will obtain six destroyers from Great Britain this year, two cruisers from the same source next year, and possibly aircraft-carrying vessels as well, was made here by Navy Minister Macdonald before he left for Ottawa.

These ships will "give our Canadian officers and men valuable experience in the handling of these larger craft," he said.

"It is my hope that after the war Canada's navy never will be reduced to its very insignificant status of pre-war days."

The shipping race now is definitely in favor of the United Nations, said Mr. Macdonald. Great Britain, the United States and Canada expect to build this year a tonnage of 23,000,000 to 25,000,000—a tonnage which the enemy cannot possibly over- come."

Canadian Wrens Arrive In Britain

The first contingent of Canadian Wrens have arrived in Britain for duty at the Royal Canadian Navy headquarters in London. Here Chief Officer Mocatta, of the London area, inspects the newly arrived Canadian Wrens.

Use Captured Nazi Motorship As Plane Carrier

LONDON.—On a spring day in 1940 a British cruiser towed the fire-blackened hull of a German merchant ship into the harbor of Kingston, Jamaica. That hull was what was left of the express cargo boat Hanover. Canadians had had a part in capturing her. And she was to play a great part in winning the battle of the Atlantic for the Allied fleets.

The Hanover was a blockade runner. Overtaken by a British ship and the Canadian destroyer Assiniboine, she was put out of action and the Canadians formed a boarding party which prevented the German crew from scuttling her.

Twenty-one months later, some 900 miles off the French port of Brest, the Hanover met her end, not as the Hanover but as H.M.S. Audacity, the first escort aircraft carrier, the first of a line of ships that was to win the battle of the Atlantic against the German U-boats. Nobody would ever have recognized the Hanover when she came out to sea as the Audacity. Not even the Germans. For, when they finally sank her they reported her sinking as a fleet carrier of 23,000 tons. The British Navy, of course, knew her as the ex-Hanover, a 5,000-ton motor ship.

From the day she went into service with a new 400-foot flight deck built over the cargo holds to the day that every available submarine in her area was concentrated to get her, she was only 14 weeks. The Germans got her, right enough, but they were unable, until the lesson she had taught—that sea-borne airpower would beat the U-boats.

The first German torpedo boat Audacity's bows off. She sank soon afterwards. But during her 14 weeks of work she had made half a dozen trips with the regular Gibraltar convoy. One of them got through without loss and others suffered lightly. Audacity was equipped with six Martlet fighters, each of them doing a 4½-hour sea patrol each day. On one day, according to the record, Audacity's aircraft sighted 17 submarines. That was the day the submarines closed in and got Audacity but her aircraft, up to that time had strafed a score of submarines, sunk a half dozen with the aid of surface escorts and shot down a whole squadron of long-range Focke-Wulf fighters.

IMPROVING ROAD

EDMONTON.—Hon. W. A. Fallow, Alberta minister of public works, said preliminary work has been started on a $400,000 road improvement program of a 16-mile stretch of the Meridian highway on the Alberta-Saskatchewan border. Mr. Fallow said the Saskatchewan government will pay half the cost of the program.

Running right through the Biblical Garden of Eden is a pipe line which carries oil from Iraq to the Mediterranean.

NOT EASY TASK

Governor-General Warns Against Optimism Over Early Nazi Defeat

EDMONTON.—Although fate of the enemy now is beyond the region of doubt in anyone's mind, "this is not the time to relax in any degree the efforts we have made to bring us thus far," the Earl of Athlone declared in a luncheon address before members of the Canadian Club. "Let us not delude ourselves with any idea that the task is going to be easy," he warned.

The governor-general said people should not imagine that the short and comparatively easy campaign in Sicily or the bloodless capture of Kiska are patterns for what will follow "when we make the assault on Germany."

"We have only encountered a small fraction of the German forces on land. Their morale is unimpaired and if they formed the mainpring of the defense in Sicily and fought with vigor and determination and a skill comparably superior to the Italians, how much more formidable will they be when they have to defend their own homeland?"

WILL BE INVALID

Neutral Nations Warned Against Accepting Italian Investments From Nazis

WASHINGTON.—Britain and the United States warned neutrals against pulling German financial chestnuts out of the fire of invasion in Italy, and apparently set a pattern for handling German interests in territories, to be reconquered later.

Disclosing that the Germans are trying to dump their Italian investments in neutral territory, the Anglo-American statement warned that the two governments would not recognize such deals.

The democracies "reserve the right to treat as invalid any transfer to neutral ownership of any enemy-owned rights or interests in property in Italy," said the statement from the state department.

Stage Soldier Show

There was nothing small time about the talent that went into "Rookies Play Hockey," soldier show staged by troops in training at the Basic Training Centre at Vernon, B.C. Three of the stars, who wrote, produced and staged the production, are shown above. Left to right they're Lance Corporal Douglas Montgomery, star of the screen version of "Little Men What Now" and many other Broadway and Hollywood productions, Lance Corporal Dick Miesner, well-known Vancouver radio personality and pianist, and Corporal Gilest Stuart, English born actor who appeared in "A Yank In The R.A.F." and other pictures. Talent came right from the ranks, with the assistance of a group of comely Vernon dancers and singers and the production played to both civilian and khaki audiences in the arena.

Six-Foot Soldiers Make Up This Canadian Army Guard

This guard of a Canadian infantry brigade, lined up for inspection in one of the Mediterranean war theatres where Canadian troops are serving, is no small affair as anyone can see. All its members stand six feet tall or over. On extreme right of the party is the Brigade Sergeant Major, W. R. Armstrong of Toronto.

Light Air Force Saved Britain Three Years Ago

LONDON.—The Germans definitely planned the first aerial assault on London three years ago this month to set off the invasion of Britain.

The R.A.F., which had the major task of breaking up the attack, was outnumbered more than four to one by the German air force's 3,450 planes.

Now, at the time of the third anniversary of the epochal Battle of Britain, it is possible for the first time to divulge some behind-the-scenes facts of the struggle.

The Germans were always known to have planned to invade Britain eventually, but it never previously was disclosed how imminent the invasion was or by what a close margin it was thwarted.

The invasion—for which, 2,500 barges were massed at ports across the English Channel and in the North Sea during the attack on London—was to have been the climax of a five-week program culminating in mid-September.

The planned preliminary steps were to have been the knocking-out of the R.A.F. and then the bombing of London to shatter the will and ability to resist the invasion.

If the invasion had been launched in June, 1940, right after the collapse of France, it might have succeeded.

After Dunkirk, the R.A.F. had only three squadrons that hadn't been in action on the continent. The force that battled back more than 500 German planes on Sept. 15, 1940, and 805 on Sept. 27 amounted to only 29 squadrons—less than 350 planes—some of which fought three times a day.

The R.A.F.'s big assets, besides courage, were a radio location system, and the Germans' sequence of mistakes.

The Germans counted on dive-bombing, but the evasive tactics which saved the Stukas in Spain didn't work in Britain. Against attack, their bombers didn't have enough armor. The failure forced the Germans into high-level, daylight, pattern bombing which proved too vulnerable to disruption.

As early as 390 B.C. the city of Rome was invaded and burned by the Gauls.

Open Longest Stage Mail Trip In The World

DAWSON CREEK, B.C.—Described as the longest stage mail route in the world, the 1,000-mile overland postal service from this southern supply base on the Alaska highway to Whitehorse, Y.T., has been inaugurated here. The service will be on a daily schedule, northbound and southbound.

United States army postal trucks, carrying five tons of letters and parcels for Canadian and American highway workers and residents of towns and construction camps along the route, started on the long trek. Before the 72-hour trip is completed, the trucks will climb two mountain ranges and plough through muskeg to get the mail through.

Thirteen stops, each about 90 miles apart, will be made at various Canadian civilian and U.S. army post offices.

In undertaking a joint Canada-United States plan, will serve the whole Yukon Territory and will give workers and residents in Canada's northwest a service that will rival delivery in many parts of the North American continent.

Sorting point for the service is at Edmonton and from there Canadian postal officials route the mail by railway to Dawson Creek, a one-day haul. The American postal service then takes over, carrying the mail to the northern end of the road.

The new system is a considerable improvement over the previous service. Mail for Canadians in the Yukon was sent from Edmonton to Vancouver; by boat to Skagway and finally over White Pass Yukon railway to Whitehorse. Boat schedules were uncertain and mail arrived an average of five or six times a month.

Mail for American soldiers and civilians was routed from Edmonton to Seattle and then by boat to the north. This schedule also was uncertain. The same circumstances prevailed in the southbound delivery but this has been eliminated by the new system.

NEW COUNCILLOR

Princess Elizabeth Will Serve When The King Is Away

LONDON.—The House of Commons agreed that in future when the King is absent from the realm, Princess Elizabeth may serve as one of his councillors of state.

The King made the request for parliament's agreement in a message read to the house.

This carries forward one more step the preparation of the princess for queenship and will give her an opportunity to try her hand at statecraft.

On the King's last foreign trip, to visit the troops in North Africa, she was excluded from the council of state, headed by the Queen, because she was a minor. She will attain legal majority on her 18th birthday, next April 21.

The King's action suggested he may contemplate another trip some day to visit his forces abroad.

FIGHTING FAMINE

India Trying To Introduce Food Ration Plan For Cities

NEW DELHI.—With the death toll from starvation sometimes exceeding 50 a day in Calcutta alone, India's food grains committee put forward a new rationing plan designed to bring some degree of remedy if it can get 11 provinces and a score or more of big states to agree.

Food rationing in all of India's several score of cities of more than 100,000 population is proposed in the new plan, which also calls for an increase in supplies, principally by the importation of at least 1,500,000 tons of grain during the current year.

STILL HAVE SUBS

Navy Minister Macdonald Warns Against Revival Of Nazi Attacks

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—Warning of a revival of German submarine attacks was given in an interview by Navy Minister Macdonald.

"The enemy still has several hundred U-boats and they will come out again," he asserted. "They got a terrible drubbing in May, June and July when we sank them almost at the rate of one a day, but we haven't sunk them all."

"Although the campaign against the U-boats is most gratifying, don't think that it is over. The enemy is always improving his vessels, and, although his morale is badly shaken, he will come out again."

YOUTH OF FRANCE PREY ON GERMAN RECRUITING DRIVES

The scene is Paris, the time 8 o'clock on a September morning. A 16-year-old youth closes the door of his home in a fashionable residential district and starts off down the street, whistling.

A German-driven truck rolls up beside him, and a German officer gets out and asks him for his papers. Producing them, he is seized, and pushed into the vehicle, where he finds some 20 other boys under the watchful eye of two armed guards. He had been "recruited" for manual labor in the best German tradition. There were 40 of these lads, all between the ages of 16 and 19, when the truck had completed its morning rounds. They were crowded into a cattle car for a trip to Lyon, and thence to a camp. There they received the information that they were to work under the German forced labor organization (Toti). Their parents were not informed at all, and never would have been if two of their number had not managed to escape. As it is, they have the grim news that their sons are today breaking stones for fortifications in Northern Italy.

Conditions in one of these Toti camps (in the region of Soissons) are described in a dispatch from Algiers: Six thousand workers, the report says, begin work every morning at 4.30 o'clock, rising, of course, long before that time, as they first have to complete a train journey from the camp to the scene of their employment. They work hard until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, with no respite except a quarter hour for a snack and half an hour for lunch. Adding to their general discomfort is the fact that of every 120 workers, 80 are without shoes.

Back in camp again, some of them do not get their evening meal until 9.30 o'clock, so great are the numbers to be fed. Their repast comprises, invariably, a piece of black bread, a piece of sausage, and a bit of butter or fat. They sleep in bunks, 40 to a room, and due to this and to their very early rising, seldom manage to get more than six hours sleep at night. This only serves to aggravate a lamentable physical condition created by overwork and lack of food, and absenteeism is reportedly phenomenal. Of 400 workers on a certain construction job, as many as 250 are unable to make their appearance.

The underground press comforts itself in part with the remark at the end of the account that "under such conditions, production is naturally very meagre."

LET'S BE DOING ... while we're planning

● Everybody is thinking a great deal about the future these days... planning... getting ready for the period to follow the war. All realize that the war may bring surprises—but the tide is turning in our favour.

Chemists and engineers, producing things needed for war, are making discoveries which will mean comforts and conveniences for all of us when peace comes. New methods of making things, new processes, new materials, now being fled away in blue prints and formulae, will bring us many new and useful articles. Many things not available now will be replaced by better models and designs.

You may have plans for a new home, remodelling your present home, new home furnishings. If you are a farmer you will need new and improved equipment and machinery.

Now, while you are thinking and planning, you can do something to insure that your plans can be carried out. Victory Bonds—which can be bought on convenient instalments, with money as you get it—provide a means of keeping your savings intact, earmarked for things you want.

Most Canadians are saving money. Most of us are buying Victory Bonds and when we buy Victory Bonds we are helping to win the war. We are helping to speed the day of victory and we are doing something that will benefit ourselves.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the face value of the Bond on the date of maturity with half-yearly interest until that time. A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada backed by the entire resources of the Dominion. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest when due. A Victory Bond is an asset readily marketable at any time.

We have chronic loafers almost galore. And the government appears to be doing nothing for them. They are as much entitled to justice as anyone, and it would be a blessing to know that steps are being taken to relieve us of them.

Pie fillers made of preserved fruits, and canned goods such as marachino cherries are included in the order rationing preserves and sweet spreads, according to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Strained, crushed and other infants' fruits are also within the ration and can only be bought by surrender of D coupons. Exemptions are raisin pie fillings and cream fillings fruit flavored, glace cherries, peels and frozen fruits.

And here's a Newfoundland fish story: While fishing with Magistrate Short, Jim Read hooked a large salmon that refused to appear before the representative of the law and instead remained on the bottom of the river. Fearing that tackle would be lost if pressure were brought to bear, Jim tied the line to a birch tree and hurried to secure help. Upon return about midnight it was found the tackle still held the fish, while the fish still held the bottom. The anglers exerted all their wiles to lure the fish to its doom, but without success, and finally at about 2.30 a.m. it got away. To add to their chagrin, on returning to the car, the weary fishers found it locked and the keys inside.

Radio-telephone hookups loom as a possibility for post war householders. Even now, in some sections of the United States, telephone conversations are being jumped across gaps where there are no poles and no wires. New radio wave lengths have been discovered and employed, adding broad highways of ether communications to space formerly used.

NEW SCHEDULE PRESERVES RATIONING EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 30, 1943

Preserves rationing gives the consumer a number of choices both of products and sizes of containers. Because of the wide range of container sizes and the variation in buying habits across the country it was necessary to put the system into operation and then make adjustments on the basis of experience.

Now that preserves rationing has been in effect for several weeks, it is possible to make some increases in coupon values. The new schedule is announced below and is effective September 30th.

The new doubled ration allowances for molasses, extracted and comb honey will enable consumers in areas where consumption of these products is heavy, to buy more and still leave enough for districts where the total demand is light.

The increased ration allowances for corn, cane and blended table syrups and maple syrup are adjusted to bring coupon values more closely into line with the great variety of container sizes now in use.

When it comes to saving coal - Patriotism and common sense go hand in hand

FARSIGHTED householders are seeing the urgent need of preparing their homes now against this winter's coal shortage. They are acting now!

HEATING SYSTEMS MUST BE EFFICIENT: HOMES SHOULD BE ADEQUATELY INSULATED.

Here are some jobs you should be doing NOW!

- 1 Have your entire heating system inspected. Order necessary repairs.
- 2 Have your furnace thoroughly cleaned by a competent man. Insulate furnace and pipes where necessary.
- 3 Be sure that you have sufficient storm windows and that all windows and doors fit tightly. Have cracks in walls repaired. Weatherstrip wherever it is necessary. Consider seriously the insulation of ceiling and walls.

Many homes waste as much as 60% of their fuel through inefficient heating equipment, inadequate insulation and other heat losses. Winter is just around the corner. Prepare NOW!

LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

HAY FEVER TREATMENT

"Hay fever is not the harmless annoyance that we are prone to think it," Dr. R. F. Hughes of Hamilton, Ont., warns. In an article published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal he points out that hay fever not only causes loss of time but is frequently attended by complications. Experience indicates that the hay fever sufferer has at least a 50-50 chance of becoming asthmatic.

Army examining boards "take a very unfavorable view of it, especially when attended by complications," according to Dr. Hughes.

Reporting on 235 hay fever patients he saw in 1942, the physician tells of careful pollen tests made outdoors in Hamilton that year. Maple and elm pollens appeared first and they were followed by birch and pine. By the beginning of May many tree pollens were noted. Tree pollination stopped by the beginning of June. Grass pollen appeared a week after the tree pollen became general. There was little pollen in the air from the middle of July to the middle of August, but ragweed pollen, a chief cause of misfortune, to the allergic, began August 9 and dominated the scene until September 27.

Of the 235 patients, 209 were affected by ragweed, 72 by grasses, 15 by trees, 85 by other inhalants and 31 by moulds. A number were sensitive to several pollens and had to be treated by several methods. Forty-eight per cent. had asthmatic complications.

Doctor Hughes counsels careful diagnosis by means of skin tests. Specific treatment is available to relieve the condition, not to cure it, and in a large percentage of cases good results are obtainable. Even those in whom the results are poor enjoy some measure of relief, it is indicated. Reaction to treatment suffered by some patients, were due to accidental injection in a blood vessel or to dosage error, it is stated.

Treatment should be done before the pollen season, and most of the patients seen by Dr. Hughes sought help before they were affected in 1942. Plants which pollinate in the greatest abundance and which have the most toxic pollen as yet made the greatest amount of treatment necessary. Ragweed is one of these. Physicians should be able to promise relief in 80 to 90 per cent. of cases, as only a small percentage of patients resist treatment. Of 235 patients seen by Dr. Hughes, 96 per cent. had satisfactory results and 27 per cent. had fair results.

Chief Carpenter's Mate W. H. Blumling, 41, returned from service with a construction battalion in Africa, expressed great admiration for the cranial powers of the natives. He gave one a letter to mail. He put it on top of his head, placed a stone on it as a paper weight and carried it to the mail post. Then he gave him a 350-pound airplane engine, which he placed on his head, and without even a paper weight to keep it from blowing off, carried it four miles to its destination. Still another filled a navy wheelbarrow with dirt, placed the barrow, dirt and all on his head and carried it to the dump.

What was a two hour train ride from Brussels to Liege now takes eight hours, and the 55 minute Brussels-Charleroi run is now a seven hour journey.

These are samples, reported to the Belgian government in exile, of the condition of Belgium's railways as a result of the German occupation. The Germans have removed from Belgium, it is reported, 1,200 locomotives, 500,000 freight cars, 750 passenger coaches and 625 miles of track. Rolling stock and engines still in service are in extremely poor condition—Overseas News Agency.

Ten thousand rotor arms alone were made out of palm resin, although Bartlett has since developed a better plastic from other trees common to the Middle East.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 3

JESUS AND THE TEN COMMANDMENTS

Golden text: Think not that I came to destroy the law or the prophets: I came not to destroy, but to fulfil. Matthew 5:17. Lesson: Matthew 5:17-20; 19:16-22; John 5:39, 40. Devotional Reading: Matthew 7: 21-27.

Explanations and Comments Jesus declares that the Commandments Must Be Kept, Matthew 5:17-20. "Think not that I came to destroy (set aside) the law or the prophets," Jesus said—knowing full well, of course, that the Pharisees would accuse him of just that—; "I came not to destroy, but to fulfil."

Verses 20-48 are a series of illustrations of the way in which he would have the law and the prophets fulfilled—filled completely—for he would have his followers go much farther than the Old Testament law required. The law was right as far as it went, he held, but his followers must regard the spirit or the motive back of every act. Moses and the prophets only laid the firm foundation on which to build, for God's revelation to them was not final; he sent his Son to rear thereon a superstructure, a higher and fuller revelation of his will.

Jesus Declares That Keeping the Commandments is Not Enough, Matthew 19:16-22. One day a young man of position and wealth who lived a moral life came to Jesus to ask him what good thing he should do to have eternal life. Jesus told him to keep the commandments, and he asked, "Which?" Jesus then specified the commandments which are concerned with the rights of another—his right to his life, his family, his property, his reputation. The young man claimed that he had always observed those commandments: "What lack I yet?" he questioned. He realized that the mere keeping of the commandments, the refraining from doing ill to another, was not enough; much more was required. Jesus counseled him to go and sell all his property, give the proceeds to the poor, and come and follow him. It was not of the poor that Jesus was thinking but the young man's soul. Ordinarily it would not be best for a wealthy man to give away all his property; rather should he manage it wisely and spend generously for the welfare of others. But for the young man whose wealth so possessed his soul that it kept him from God, it would have been wise to part with all of it.

"And thou shalt have treasure in heaven," added Jesus, "and come, follow me." Instead, the young man went away sorrowful; for he had great possessions.

Now In Training

British Teachers Going To Polish Schools After Country Is Freed Arrangements are now being made for sending British school teachers to Polish schools and academies as soon as the country is freed. At least 50 teachers are in training, learning the language, studying the history of the country and its institutions. The British and Polish governments are supporting the scheme. The number of teachers to be sent is increased if the demand justifies an extension of the plan, which will later be adopted for other Axis-overrun countries.

Bean Jonathan

by J.B. Ryan

CHAPTER IV.

JONATHAN HALE turned away striding in the direction of the barn behind his grandfather's cottage. Like a sinner doing penance, he applied himself to the chores about the little farm, striving by labor to purge himself of the internal havoc created by the lips of Anne Jamieson.

That had been the first time in his life that Jonathan had ever kissed a girl, and he was troubled by the experience for hours. At length he quitted the barnyard for the house where he found Faith, her hands in a bowl of flour and her arms white to the elbows.

"Faith," he said, and it was the first time he had spoken all day, "I want you to kiss me."

The placidity of her face became disturbed. "But—Jonathan—" she stammered, "we—we are not married yet."

He caught her by the shoulders. "Kiss me, Faith," he said. "There—there is something I must know."

She lifted her face obediently and touched her mouth against his. As he had done with Mistress Anne, Jonathan closed his arms about her. Faith's lips made a smacking sound. "There!" she laughed. "That was what you wanted?"

Jonathan's arms fell away. The kiss of Faith had left him cold and unmoved. The contact had aroused within him none of the fire, none of the fierce joy aroused by Anne Jamieson.

"JONATHAN!" Grandfather Hale's voice boomed from the doorway. "What does this mean? Has that hussy left you bewitched? I saw you kiss her this morning. Now I find you embracing Faith. Can you not wait until she is your wife?"

"Faith and I are not going to be married," said Jonathan, then added humbly, "I am sorry, Faith."

She stared at him humbly, her eyes blinking open in perplexity. Thomas Hale's stooped shoulders straightened and he strode toward his grandson. "What did you say, Jonathan? Of course you are to wed Faith. That has been understood for years."

"No," the younger man shook his head. "It would not be right, Grandfather. We do not love each other."

"Love?" Hale barked. "What do you know of such poppycock?"

"I cannot hope to make you understand, Grandfather, but please do not be angry. I am going to London."

"London—the home of Belial!" Thomas Hale gasped, then composed himself enough to ask, "It is that actress, Jonathan?"

"Yes," nodded Jonathan. "I love her, Grandfather, and must go to her where she is."

The grim, grey face contorted as with an inward spasm, yet Thomas Hale's voice was gentle when he spoke, placing a hand on Jonathan's arm. "My boy, rid yourself of this devil's enchantment that can end only in misery."

Jonathan moistened his lips as though about to speak, but his mouth set stubbornly and he remained silent.

"THE argument of the grandfather continued. "Look, instead, at Faith. You will need a woman like her in Massachusetts. She will make home for you, bear your children, feed you and keep you clean."

"I am not going to America," said Jonathan. "The farm is sold. I know and all preparations made. You and Faith can board the ship without me. I am still of mind to go to London town."

The old Puritan flung Jonathan's arm away so violently that the gesture was almost a blow. "You shall come with us or starve! If you persist in this madness you shall not have a penny when you depart."

"I want nothing from you, grandfather. I shall take with me only what mine—my father's sword and my horse—the gelding purchased with money earned by myself."

Thomas Hale stepped back, flinging up his white-haired head. "Get ye gone, then!" he rasped.

No further word was spoken as Jonathan went into his room to belt the sword about his waist. When he reached the kitchen door on his way to the stable, Faith stirred as if to speak, but a warning sign from Hale silenced the girl. When Jonathan, on the added and bridled roan, turned toward the road, the grandfather was at the gate for a parting word.

"You can make the trip to London and back to Wilmot in three days," said the old man. "That will give you time to catch the boat from Southampton. I give you that long to learn that the smile of your painted lady will be brief when she finds you have no gold."

"You need not wait for me," said Jonathan. "Farewell, Grandfather. God be with thee."

than, with a wrinkled face black with jagged dirt. Jonathan dropped his shilling into the unwashed palm before he realized that he had broken his resolution to be as saving as possible with his few coins.

"Thankie, sir!" The beggar tugged a greynish foinlock and pocketed the shilling.

The Inn of the Golden Hind swarmed into indignation the most established of Master Knowles, the common room itself being vaster than the Wilmot tavern, and the room was filled with stale smoke and the sour smell of ale and wine. Many of the tables were occupied by both men and women, some eating and others busy with cards, dice and money.

The price of a room started Jonathan. A night's lodging and one full meal would consume his entire store of gold shillings. Nevertheless, he ventured to question the landlord concerning the location of the various theatres.

Armed with the information, he set out, but at only one playhouse was the name of Mistress Jamieson and Monsieur Denys known, but no suggestions were proffered that would disclose the present whereabouts of the pair. Jonathan was depressed when he returned to the Golden Hind.

"THE morning found his time up at the inn and his pocket empty. But Jonathan was not the man to abandon a quest. The previous afternoon had given him a rudimentary knowledge of the city. He rode his horse until he found a livery and sold the gelding for a sum that would keep him in board and lodging for some time to come, then set out on foot once more to hunt for other theatres and make the customary inquiries.

At the end of the second day he had contacted all the theatres of importance and had been turned away with shakes of the head. Tired and footsore, he was on his way back to his dwelling-place when up ahead among the pedestrians, he sighted a familiar figure.

The street was dim with twilight and the shadows of the buildings, but there was no mistaking the dark-haired, velvet-doubled Monsieur Denys.

"Denys!" Jonathan shouted, darting forward. But the distance was too great for the little Frenchman to hear. A burly sailor refused to step aside for the running man and Jonathan had to slacken his pace to avoid a collision. By the time Jonathan had stepped around the sailor Denys was nowhere in sight.

GLOWLY the young Puritan walked toward the spot where he had last seen the Frenchman. The street seemed vaguely familiar and he found himself standing before a building he recognized at once.

This was the Castle, the very first playhouse he had visited. And leaning against the closed door of the players' entrance was the same light-tipped man who had turned Jonathan away the day before.

"Pardon me," Jonathan stepped forward. "Did Monsieur Denys enter this building?"

The doorman surveyed his questioner from head to foot. "Um," he grunted, and spat. "So it's you again, be it? No, I told you yesterday there's no one in here."

"But—I saw him—a small, dark man—"

"Can't help it," the other scowled. "This place is empty. If you argue again I'll be just like calling me a liar."

Jonathan advanced another step. "Let me in. I must see for myself."

The fellow straightened, blocking the doorway more effectively. "If you touch that latch," he warned, "I'll call the watch. I have my orders about cover like you."

Jonathan found his purse and extracted a coin. The doorman eyed the offering eagerly, and at last reached out and took it.

"Be—you won't cause any trouble? You'll be gone once if they tell you to get out?"

Jonathan nodded, and the doorman unlocked the door. Jonathan slipped away, up a rickety unlighted stairway, down a hall until he reached one of a series of doors.

Jonathan makes a proposal.

SMILE AWHILE

Clara (visiting railroad roundhouse)—What is that enormous thing?

Foreman—That is a locomotive boiler.

Clara—And why do you boil locomotives?

Foreman—To make the engine tender.

Woman—I always feel a lot better after a good cry.

Friend—So do I. It sort of gets things out of your system.

Woman—No, it doesn't get anything out of my system, but it does get things out of my husband's.

First Doctor—What lawyer of mine has a nerve.

Second Doctor—Why so?

First Doctor—Listen to this item in his bill: "For waking up in the night and thinking over your case—$5.00."

"Why don't you get out and hustle? Hard work never killed anybody," said the philosophic gentleman to whom Rastus applied for a loan.

You is mistaken dar, boss," replied Rastus. "The lost foww wives dat way."

Diner: "What kind of pie have you today?"

Waitress: "We have three kinds—open-top, lattice-top, and kivered pie—but it's all apple."

Curious One: "Why do sailors wear such loose-fitting uniforms?"

Sailor: "Oh, that's to allow for shrinkage when we fall overboard."

Ethel: "But papa, he says he cannot live without me."

Father: "Tell him to think up a new one. I told that to your mother."

"These rock formations," explained the guide, "were piled up here by the glaciers."

"But where are the glaciers?" asked an old lady.

"They've gone back, madam, to get more rocks," said the guide.

"I hear your new lodger is a very impetuous fellow. Does everything in the heat of the moment?"

"Yes, it's his job. He's a blacksmith."

The movie usher was in the dentist's chair.

Dentist: "Now, Miss, which tooth is giving you all the trouble?"

Salads, Fowl Or Fish

With their Meatless Tuesdays and government orders restricting meat dishes to one choice a meal, dining car chefs, in their compact, rolling kitchens, are meeting the challenge with a wide variety of fish, including Pacific Coast salmon, cod and halibut; egg dishes on many kinds, and salads, both chicken and fresh vegetable. Above, Chef George Yacyn, who has been running on Canadian Pacific Railway diners out of Winnipeg for 26 years, hands veteran waiter Paul Sarhan two popular "meatless" favorites—sliced cold chicken with salad garnish, and the unique Lake Winnipeg golden, one of the most popular of fish. Veteran dining car men like George and Paul report that the Canadian public is giving "cheerful support" to the railways' efforts to cooperate fully with wartime food restrictions.

School Lunches

Inadequate Preparation Makes For Dullness

AN American doctor recently made the following statement: "There can be no doubt that much dullness on the part of school children, particularly among the lower income groups, can be traced in part to a lack of the proper kind of food."

In the light of surveys made in this country in 1939-40, there seems no doubt that this statement applies equally to Canada.

With school days here again the problem of the child who has to carry his lunch to school looms large.

Dr. L. B. Pett of Nutrition Services says: "There are few community enterprises that pay better dividends in child health than a school lunch programme."

When it is not possible to serve a complete lunch at school, Dr. Pett suggests that community groups, in co-operation with the local school board should give consideration to providing for a hot supplement to the lunch brought by the children from home. As examples of dishes which can be prepared with a minimum of equipment and labour, Dr. Pett suggests—hot-toccos, soup, baked potatoes, scrambled eggs, macaroni and cheese, or baked beans.

In many schools necessary equipment has been provided by the school board. The food may be supplied by each family in turn and the teacher supervises its preparation by the older children.

SELECTED RECIPES

NOVELTY MEAT ROLL

1 egg
1/2 cup bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon sage or chili powder
1 tablespoon Benson's or Canada Corn Starch
1 small or 1/2 medium onion, chopped

1/2 pound ground raw beef
1/2 pound ground fresh pork
Beat egg in a large bowl and add bread crumbs, milk, seasonings, corn starch, onion and ground meat. Mix lightly but thoroughly and pat mixture flat, on waxed paper, in an even, oblong shape. Also place a sheet of waxed paper on top of flattened mixture, and roll out or pat to 1/4" thickness. Remove top sheet of paper and spread meat mixture with filling (recipe below). Roll lengthwise in jelly-roll fashion, place in a well-greased pan and bake uncovered in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about one hour. Serve hot or cold, sliced, with sauces or salads.

Filling For Meat Roll
1 1/2 cups grated raw carrot
1/2 cup chili sauce
1-1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
Mix all ingredients together and spread over flattened meat roll mixture before rolling up (see directions above). Serves 6.

PROVE IT YOURSELF
Take your house number and double it. Add 5. Multiply by half a hundred. Then add your age (no cheating). Add the number of days in a year. Subtract 615. The last two figures of the total will be your age; the others your house number. So says the Magazine Digest.

H.M.S. Victory

Nelson's Flagship Goes Through A German Blitz

A gaping hole, such as she never knew while flagship of Lord Nelson's fleet, is the proud scar H.M.S. Victory bears as proof that she shared in the war against Hitler and imperiously as she did in the wars against Napoleon.

The Victory, a museum piece in Portsmouth docks, was bombed one night when German raiders attacked Portsmouth. A near miss blew away pictures of two present-day admirals and blasted great chunks of debris onto her decks.

But the trim ship scarcely did more than shudder under the impact and still stands upright on the trestles built to keep her out of water. The hole remains, and probably will remain after the war, as an addition to her tourist lure.

A seaman who conducted a party about the ship approached the spot below deck where Nelson died and pointed to three wreaths placed there by officers of Allied navies—the Fighting French, the Netherlands and the Poles. He ended the tour in Nelson's quarters where autographed pictures of two present-day admirals—Cunningham and Stark—adorn the polished tables.

Victory Garden Fall Clean-Up

Drawing and text by Domitrios Department of Agriculture
Fall housecleaning and the Fall garden clean-up are almost due. Many insects, commonly found in vegetable gardens, pass the winter in different stages of their development, on or beneath piles of plant refuse left lying about by the untidy or innocent gardener. Among many such insects might be mentioned the tarnished plant bug, imported cabbage worms, flea beetles, striped cucumber beetles, cutworms and leaphoppers. To reduce infestation next year, all plant refuse should be gathered up and burned just as soon as the last crop of the year have been harvested.

To destroy insects which lay their eggs in the autumn on grass and weeds, cultivation of the garden should be continued until freeze-up. Too many gardeners allow the weeds to grow unchecked during the late summer and autumn. This not only feeds the garden with undesirable, but affords suitable host plants upon which many insects will lay their eggs for spring hatching.

Clean up and destroy any insect cocoons or egg masses adorning to trees, shrubs, fences, buildings and garden furniture. The effect of all such practices will be reflected next season in the reduced insect population inhabiting the garden.

Would Have To Change Japan As Cruel Aggressor Has Not Loyalty Of Oppressed Races

Japan's war lords would like to make the most of the "Yellow Peril" by recruiting Asia's millions into "a united army to vanquish the white race." The threat is not to be lightly dismissed and has often been appreciated by military strategists.

Japan has, however, expanded in Asia, not as a friend, but as a cruel aggressor, and she would radically have to change her foreign policy to win the loyalty of those races she has oppressed.

Rayons should be dried and blocked to shape by pressing on the wrong side with a steam iron, or covered with an evenly dampened pressing cloth.
